BLANKENSHIP, 7 OTHERS FACE INDICTMENTS

Grand Jury Reports Results of Session in County Court Today.

The Marion county grand jury this morning returned indictments against eight persons, including Orval L. Blankenship, 23, who police report has confessed to starting the recent fire at the Marion Plant Life Fertilizer Co. He was indicted on an arson charge.

Others indicted and the charges against them are: Harry Manley, larceny; Harrison Jones, alias Casey Jones, assault with intent to kill; John Vernon, carrying a concealed weapon; William E. Kline, larceny; Geraldine K. Williams, larceny; Francis Hickman, larceny, and Allen Campbell, forgery.

Blankenship, according to police, admitted that he entered the fertilizer plant about 2 a. m. on May 16 and starting a fire which resulted in destruction of the building. The alarm was turned in at 4:30 a. m. by a night employe at the Marion Rapid Transit garage across the street from the plant.

Assault Case

Harrison Jones, alias Casey Jones, was charged with assault with intent to kill after he allegedly drew a gun on W. C. Houpt and forced him to drive to the country to locate some chickens Jones claimed were his. Edward Kline was charged with snatching several purses, having taken one after aiding a woman motorist repair her automobile.

John Vernon was charged with carrying a concealed weapon when during a routine search, police discovered he carried a loaded gun. He had been arrested on a charge of speeding. Allen Campbell was charged with forgery after he had cashed worthless checks at local groceries and a drug store.

Geraldine K. Williams and Francis Hickman were charged with taking a purse which a gasoline station attendant had dropped. Harry Manley is alleged to have taken a workman's lunch from a Marion industrial plant.

Five Cases Ignored

No indictments were returned against five other persons bound over to the grand jury on charges listed with their names: Owen Messenger Jr., forgery; William Blank, non-support; Carl Philippi, fraud; William Swearingen, breaking and entering, and Oscar Messenger, breaking and entering. Messenger has already been sentenced to the Mansfield reformatory from Crawford county.

During its customary inspection of the county jail this morning the jury found the quarters for prisoners to be in order and recommended no changes.

EX-PUBLIC ENEMY KILLED BY GANGLAND

By The Associated Press

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., June 21—Gangland bullets late last night snuffed out the life of Benjamin (Bugsie) Siegel, 41-year-old gambler and one-time public enemy, as he sat quietly in his home here reading a newspaper.

Police Capt. William W. White said an unidentified gunman peaked up to an open window shortly after Siegel and a party of friends returned from dining at an Ocean Park beach, and fired through the curtains.

At least four shots entered the body of Siegel as he sat reading the paper on a divan. Beside him at one of the guests, Allen Smiley, well known sporting world figure here.

"I heard the glass scattering and ducked," Captain White quoted Smiley. "I don't know how many shots were fired, but when I looked at Siegel, I could see he had taken most of them."

White said the shots pinned Siegel to the divan. When officers arrived, they found his body still erect, the newspaper lying in his lap, smeared with blood.

Siegel who, White said, had been active in the sporting world in this area for about 10 years, once

OPPOSE NAMING OF REP. JONES

Democratic Headquarters Hit Nomination of Lima Man to U. S. Post.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 21 — Democratic state headquarters today announced opposition to the nomination by President Truman of Rep. Robert F. Jones (R-4th district) of Lima for membership on the federal communications commission.

Director Clarence H. Knisley said the state Democratic position was that Jones was a "radical Republican politician" who had been an anti-administration legislator since he first entered congress.

"He has opposed nearly every bit of liberal and social legislation," Knisley said. "We appreciate the fact that a Republican must be named on this bi-partisan board but we can't see why one of the most radical members of the opposition party was selected.

Knixley asserted that a formal protest against the appointment would be offered early next week. He declared:

"Not that we expect it to do any good, but just so we will be on record on how we stand on this latest appointment by the President that only serves to strengthen the state G. O. P. machine."

Democratic Solons Not To Stand in Jones' Way

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 21—Ohio Democratic congressmen will not protest the appointment of Rep. Robert Jones (R., Lima) to the federal communications commission, despite the displeasure of State Democratic Chairman Clarence H. Knisley.

Knisely issued a statement from his headquarters in Columbus that he is protesting to President Truman because the appointment is such a "radical" one.

Rep. Robert Crosser, Cleveland, dean of the Ohio Democratic delegation, said that was no argument. He saidthe job was a Republican one and Mr. Truman was required to appoint a man who was "unquestionably a Republican."

Crosser added that "no kind of Republican would be wholly satisfactory to me, but this is a different matter. I knew nothing about the Jones appointment until I read it in the papers, but I know he is a decent honest man."

PLAN DIKE TO GUARD WALDO FROM FLOOD

Army Engineers Consider Alternative To Moving Houses To Higher Ground.

Plans for building a dike around portions of Waldo which would be flooded when Olentangy dam reservoir is filled to capacity were disclosed at the Army engineers office in Delaware in a request for $4,609,000 to complete the project. Details of the plan were disclosed when the request for funds was presented to the house appropriation committee in Washington. Engineers hope to have the dam in operation late this year if funds are granted for the project on the Olentangy river north of Delaware.

Engineers have been studying alternative measures, either construction of a dike around the village or removal of one-fourth of the houses there to higher ground. The decision indicates engineers believe construction of a dike would be less costly than moving that many houses.

May Buy More Land

Farmers in the reservoir area are awaiting committee action on the appropriation request with interest as approval will be followed by government purchase of hundreds of acres of land there. To date land acquisition has been limited to parcels needed for actual construction work on the dam and main dike. Twenty-three have been acquired, some by condemnation proceedings and others by regular purchase.

Government agents have been negotiating for options and preparing the remaining land needed but action to acquire it is being held up pending allocation of additional funds. The appropriation request contains an item of $1,988,000 for land purchase.

Negotiations are being conducted through the Army engineers' land office in Delaware. Land purchase will be started as soon as funds are made available, according to Col. John Sharp of the Huntington, W. Va., district engineers' office.

To Raise South 23

Also included in the request for funds to complete the dam is $1,113,500 for relocation of route 23 which passes over land in the reservoir flood area. Plans call for constructing the new road at the same height as a 3.6 mile dike which will extend from both sides of the dam. Gas, electric and telephone lines will also have to be relocated.

After paralleling route 23 for a distance of one mile, the dike crosses the highway and ends against high ground about a mile west. Construction work at its junction with the highway is now underway with traffic being maintained by a temporary detour. Plans call for a gradual ramp which will raise the roadbed approximately 25 feet at that spot and carry it at the height of the dike for a hundred yards northward. A portion of the highway north of the ramp will be flooded on rare occasions when it is necessary to retain water at full flood pool.

BRITISH CHIEF MAKES ANTI-SOVIET SPEECH

By The Associated Press

BARNSLEY, England, June 21—Prime Minister Attlee declared today that "human rights are denied and so-called democratic government is a travesty" in "several countries of eastern Europe."

"I am concerned that there should be people in this country, and people who profess to be Socialists, who appear to condone things that are done by governments that call themselves left, when they would protest vigorously if precisely the same things were done by governments of the right," Atlee said in a speech at a miners' demonstration.

"Freedom of speech, freedom of conscience and personal freedom is the right of the individual whether he is a capitalist or a worker, a Conservative, a Liberal or Socialist," the premier declared.

"Wherever you find the right of opposition denied, wherever you find such devices as the single list of candidates, wherever you find a government that cannot be removed by the method of the ballot box, there is no true democracy, there is no true freedom."

It was the Socialist premier's most pointed anti-Russian statement since he told the British Trade Union congress last winter that the Soviet government was building a "wall of ignorance" between the Russian people and the west.

Ford, Firestone Wedding To Be Biggest Social Event of 1947

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., June 21—Tire heiress Martha Parke Firestone, a fair-haired 21-year-old girl with a happy smile, becomes the bride today of William Clay Ford, grandson of the late Henry Ford.

Uniting two of the nation's most famous industrial families, the meticulously planned ceremonies are to start at 4:30 p. m.

And as numerous caterers, florists, clothiers and gardeners testify, the socialite-studded event is expected to be one of the most elaborate weddings of 1947.

The young couple will plight their troth at St. Peter's Episcopal church, and its 400-seat capacity was scarcely assured adequate space, the family said. Special seats, as a consequence, have been assigned to the invited guests.

Bishop To Officiate

Bishop Beverly Dandridge Tucker of the Episcopal diocese of Ohio will officiate with Rev. Dr. Walter Funks, rector of St. Paul's.

After the ceremony, the guests will move across town to Harbel Manor, sprawling estate of Mrs. Harvey S. Firestone, widow of the famed tire magnate and grandmother of the bride.

There the reception will be held in a setting of carefully-cultivated gardens, or, if it rains, the huge home will be used.

William Ford, who is 22, has selected his brother Henry II, president of the Ford Motor Co., as his best man, and Miss Firestone will be attended by her older sister, Elizabeth Firestone.

"Settled down" in their case, he says, will mean living in a "honeymoon cottage" he has rented at New Haven, where he is a senior at Yale university.

He expects to complete his studies this year, and recently told reporters that meantime his young wife-to-be would "stay at home and keep house."

Vassar Graduate

She is a Vassar graduate and only recently returned to America after an extended tour of Europe.

Here is a list of some of the attendants expected at today's ceremonies:

Bridesmaids—Mrs. Walter B. Ford II of Detroit, the former Josephine Ford, and sister of the prospective bridegroom; Mrs. J. Woodward Redmond of New York City, the former Libery Aldrich; Mrs. William S. Cowles Jr., also of New York; Miss Nancy Milbank, New York; Miss Virginia Scully, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Stephen B. Ives Jr., the former Peggy Crocker, Boston.

Ushers—Benson Ford, a brother of the bridegroom, Crosse Point, Mich.; Walter B. Ford II, a brother-in-law, Detroit, Mich.; Wendell Anderson Jr., Crosse Point Farms, Mich.; Douglas McClure, Detroit, Mich.; David Lippincott, New York City; Edson Spencer, Williamstown, Mass.; Daniel Haerther, Lake Forest, Ill.; Alexander Stewart, Stamford, Conn.; John Caulkins, Crosse Point, Mich.

Second Coach Quits Staff at Harding

Ralph H. Simpson, assistant coach at Harding High school, today turned in his resignation as a member of the teaching staff to E. E. Holt, superintendent of schools. The resignation will go to the board of education at its next meeting.

He is the second coach to resign within the last ten days. W. E. Thomas, head football coach at Harding, resigned last week.

Mr. Simpson, who has been a member of the teaching staff in Marion for six years, plans to enter a private business. Having formerly coached at Central Junior High school, he was at Harding during the last year. Mr. Simpson served four years with the U. S. Navy during World War II.

His residence is at 859 East Center street.

DUAL INQUIRY INTO OIL FOR RUSSIA SET

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 21 — A two-way congressional investigation of huge oil shipments to Russia was in the making today.

A house armed services subcommittee invited commerce department officials to discuss the Soviet purchases and Chairman Weichel (R-Ohio) said the house merchant marine committee may launch an inquiry of its own later.

Weichel at a time when this country's efforts to have Russia return lend lease ships have met with failure.

He added that some of the Soviet tankers transporting American oil to Russia may be United States vessels loaned to Russia during the war.

"Russia got about 100 ships from us on lend-lease and as far as I know we haven't been able to get any of them back," he told a reporter. "I don't know how many of them, if any, were tankers."

TOP DECISION FACES EUROPE

Stalin's Answer to Cooperation Plan, Due by Monday, May Change History.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 21—This weekend may bring one of the decisive moments in Europe's tangled history—and the decision lies in the mind of Prime Minister Stalin.

His problem: shall Russia join Britain and France in planning an economic "one world" for Europe, perhaps at the cost of a slipping Red grip on middle-European governments, or shall she cast aside the chance to unite Europe and go her own way in her own politico-economic sphere in the east?

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, practiced in grasping the "breaks" of trade-union warfare, snatched at U. S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall's skeletonized offer of June 5 to help rebuild Europe.

Call on Russia

Hastily he called on French Premier Paul Ramadier and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault. In two days—in Paris last Tuesday and Wednesday—this potent European trio dispatched to Russia a call to join them—and to decide by next Monday whether the Soviet Union will come in.

Russia's officially inspired Communist newspaper Pravda greeted Marshall's plan with a single blast and then relapsed into silence.

UNIONS ACT TO END MARYSVILLE STRIKE

Company Wage Offer Accepted; Work Resumes Monday.

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, June 21—Members of three striking AFL unions at the H. B. Salter Mfg. Co have ended a walkout that started on May 15 and will return to work next week following a Friday vote on a recent wage proposal by the company. The vote was 114 to 38 to end the strike.

Hourly increases of 10-cents to all journeymen workers, 10 cents to foundry workers, and five cents to all other dayrate employes were granted by the company before the vote was taken.

No increase was granted in piece-work rates. Originally the unions had sought a 25 per cent increase in daily wages and 10 per cent increase in piecework rates.

The Salter Co., which manufactures plumbing supplies, employs 310 persons and has an average weekly payroll of about $12,000

Bricker To Support Fair Tax Exemption

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, June 21 — Ohio's Sen. John W. Bricker today promised to support the house-approved bill to exempt state and county fairs from the 20 per cent federal admissions tax.

Bricker said he would "like to see the proposed business law" after Ohio state Fair Manager Edwin Roth testified plans to challenge the government's right to collect the tax and asked for the support of Bricker and Sen. Robert A. Taft.

Taft's office said Gov. Cincinnati expects had not had time to consider the full program of the Taft-Hartley labor bill appropriation.

Labor Bill's Foes Ramble On — But To Empty Senate

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 21 — This was the picture at 9 o'clock this morning in the senate chamber after more than 21 hours of consecutive session in the vain effort to get a vote on overriding the presidential veto of the Taft-Hartley labor bill:

Senator Morse (R-Ore.), talking slowly, still urged a delay over the weekend on the vote.

Less than a half dozen senators were in the chamber and none appeared to be listening as Morse droned on.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), looking cheerful, read a morning newspaper while occupying the front row seat of the Republican leader.

Silver-thatched Senator Pat McCarran (D-Nev.) was the only Democrat in sight. He sat in the minority leader's chair apparently reading the red-covered congressional directory.

Senator Malone (R-Nev.) was presiding but turned over the gavel to Senator Gurney (R-SD) right on the hour.

Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) smiled and waved to a reporter just arriving in the overhead press gallery.

Just past nine, Senators Cain (R-Wash.) and Byrd (D-Va.) walked in from a side door and began chatting.

Apparently annoyed, Morse paused and asked:

"Mr. President can we have order?"

Senator Gurney rapped on his desk and the conversation ceased.

On the desk in front of Morse was a cup of coffee or tea, half consumed. And on a chair behind him were several pots that apparently had contained earlier supplies of beverage.

Many volumes were stacked on an adjacent desk, each with pink slips inserted, apparently as references for later talking material.

Public galleries that had been crowded last night were nearly empty.

Last Senate Marathon Occurred 20 Years Ago

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 21—The last previous all-night and all-day session of the senate occurred more than 20 years ago.

The body stayed in continuous session in the early part of March, 1927, during consideration of the election contest against William Vare of Pennsylvania.

It met at 11 a. m. on March 2 to consider a resolution extending the life of a committee investigating the election, and stayed in session until 12:02 a. m. March 4—a total of 37 hours and two minutes.

The senate then adjourned until 8:30 a. m. March 4 and at noon the same day adjourned the session.

Vare was later denied a seat.

CIO HEAD DEMANDS RESIGNATION OF TAFT

Dares Senator To Quit, Face New Election On Record.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 21—Jack Kroll, head of the CIO's Political Action committee, denounced Sen. Robert T. Taft last night for helping to frame the Taft-Hartley labor bill and demanded that the senior Buckeye senator to resign from office.

Kroll's statements, carried by radio station WHKC of Columbus, formed an appeal to President Truman to exert the influence of his "high office" in having congress sustain yesterday's veto

As head of the Ohio CIO council, Kroll also urged Gov. Thomas J. Herbert to veto the Van Aken labor bill passed last week by the Ohio legislature.

Terming Taft the "architect of that monstrous piece of legislation," the Taft-Hartley bill, Kroll asked that Taft resign his position and place his record before the people in another election.

"If he would accept this challenge," Kroll declared, "I predict he would be soundly defeated."

He then added that Taft would not "dare resign because he knows that the voters regard his record as the blackest of any official."

Kroll also asserted the press had not given a "sane analysis of the Taft-Hartley bill."

FOES, BACKERS LOCK ON TIME FOR SHOWDOWN

Weary Solons Stay in Continuous Session, Trying To Agree on Hour.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 21 — Frazzled senators still were far from agreement today on fixing a time for a vote on President Truman's veto of the Taft-Hartley labor control bill. An end to their all-day, all-night wrangling was nowhere in sight after nearly 24 hours of continuous session.

As a small band of veto supporters continued their desperate effort to delay a final judgment until next week, Senate Republican Leader White of Maine said an effort will be made to reach an agreement for a vote Monday.

This announcement came after White conceded it would be virtually impossible to force a vote anytime today on the veto which the house easily overrode yesterday almost immediately after it had arrived from the White House.

Morse Has Floor

Senator Morse (R-Ore), one of the group determined to delay a vote until the nation has time to react to Mr. Truman's radio address of last night supporting his veto message, still held the floor as the senate approached its 24th hour of continuous session.

There was no opportunity for the Republican leaders, dead set in their hopes of overriding the veto and making the bill law, to dicker for a vote Monday until Morse quit talking.

There was a possible chance that once Morse gave up the senate might agree finally on White's proposal to vote Monday and go home for much-needed weekend rest.

Senator Pepper (D-Fla), like Morse an opponent of the bill, earlier had tried a similar move, but the Republicans, aided by a number of Democrats, smashed that effort, 50 to 14. Opponents have been holding out to prevent a vote before Tuesday at the earliest.

The White House said several hundred telegrams have been received in response to Mr. Truman's veto message and his radio address of last night.

5-1 for Veto

Eben Ayers, assistant press secretary, told reporters the ratio was about 5 to 1 in support of the President's stand.

Morse began his speech at 5:10 a. m. (EST). After he had talked more than five hours, Senator Olin D. Johnston (D-SC) another opponent of the bill, sought to give the Oregonian a brief rest by asking unanimous consent for a quorum call without jeopardizing Morse's rights to continue talking.

Senator Ives (R-NY) promptly objected.

Senator Knowland (R-Calif), presiding at the time, told Morse that if he had yielded that this would have been counted as "one speech" and additional remarks would be a second and final speech under senate rules.

Morse Feels "Fine"

"I feel fine," Morse said. "This is my first speech on this bill. I am going to make another one tomorrow."

Meanwhile, Senator Byrd (D-Va) issued a statement predicting that the senate, like the house, will override the President's veto. But the vote will be "closer than many think," Byrd said adding, "never have I seen such terrific pressure exerted upon the senate."

"The result of sustaining the President's veto might well be calamitous. It would extinguish the last hope for worthwhile labor reform legislation for a long time to come. It would be a green light to arrogant and willful labor leaders to strike in vital industries again and again and to use every method of coercion and intimidation to gain their selfish ends.

"America at Crossroads"

Pepper was joined by [illegible] Taylor (D-Idaho) and Kilgore (D-WVa) in a [illegible] and [illegible] Russell (D-Ga), who [illegible] to vote to override the veto, did [illegible] on a filibuster.

It's Not Really There, But They Call It 'Frisco

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21 — This isn't really a city—it's a matter of faith.

There is no such thing as San Francisco. You can see it on the map, and drive through it, and get run over by a motor car in it. But it isn't really there.

Hal Boyle

This is the second time I've been in it, but you can't convince me it really exists. It is like London in Shakespeare's day or Paris for restless Americans in the 10 years after the First World War.

It is Nineveh and Tyre and a mule-ridden Babylon — well policed. It is the Far East in translation, and the Old West wrapped in garlic. It is a melting pot where the ingredients mix without anger.

San Francisco is a product of what itself? The people who make up the place are glad to see you when you come, but they wouldn't give you a lead nickel to induce you to stay. They would pay money to keep from being a second New York, and they'll mortgage their homes to prevent becoming another Los Angeles.

Very History-Conscious

They are one of the most history-conscious communities west of Cairo, but they never have got the idea that history doesn't keep on happening.

There is always a fog coming up here, and there is always a breeze to blow it away. That is what is known locally as the climate.

It is the only settled place in America where a stranger wishes in summertime he had brought along his long woolen underwear. When the hot sun sets he starts looking around for the penguins. Nature air-conditions it to the temperature of a Kansas movie theater in July.

San Francisco is grown up. Like New Orleans, it believes in food. It is the happy hunting ground of the finicky alimentary canal, a palace of the palate, be it steak-hungry or in quest of tapioca-tasting Oriental bird's nest soup. A shrimp is shrimp-sized here as it is in Copenhagen. If you want what the stature-worshipping Manhattanites call a "shrimp" your pocketbook is in pawn to a "prawn."

No Frisco Diet

You have heard of the "Hollywood diet?" You will never hear of a "San Francisco diet." A fat man here doesn't have to apologize every time he reaches for the olive oil. He isn't embarrassed to stuck his fork into a well-flavored calorie.

San Francisco is one of the few places left in the world under a million population that is still lusty, gusty, sentimental and individual. It builds the country's most modern underground garage—but it wants to get out its six-

BEVIN VOWS SPEED IN EUROPEAN PLAN

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 21 — British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin vows that in launching a cooperative effort for European economic recovery under the Marshall plan he intends to brook no delays such as those which stymied the recent foreign ministers conference in Moscow.

Eagerly awaiting a response from Russia to a joint British-French request that the Soviet Union participate in drafting an aid-to-Europe program, Bevin declared in the house of commons last night that "the guiding principle I shall follow in any talks I have on this matter will be speed."

"I spent six weeks in Moscow trying to get a settlement," he asserted. "I shall not be a party to holding up the economic recovery of Europe by the mess of procedure, terms of reference or all the paraphernalia which may go with it.

"The reply of the Soviet government is awaited," he continued, "and the house will understand that until it is received there is nothing I can usefully say on the subject today. I know the great interest of the house in the U. S. proposals and I wish very much it was possible to say more about the position."

The British press gathered from the tone of Bevin's speech that Britain and France definitely intended to go ahead with work under the suggestions made two weeks ago by Secretary of State George C. Marshall—either with or without Russian participation.

Judge Weighs Case Of Vet Who Sued For Wartime Raises

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 21—U. S. Judge Mell G. Underwood had under advisement today the case of a Columbus war veteran who sued the Curtiss-Wright corporation's Columbus plant for the increased pay rates granted other employes while he was in service.

James W. Nevins asked $1.50-an-hour wages for his toolmakers' job on the basis of a total 45 months employment, including 32 months in military service. The company's defense held that his earning rate was $1.20-an-hour, five cents more than he was paid before his army induction.

Curtiss-Wright attorneys said it was company policy to grant 21 days of service credit during an authorized leave of absence and that Nevins had so been credited.

Assistant District Attorney Lorren G Windom based Nevins' arguments on a U. S. supreme court decision that upheld seniority rights of veterans of pre-war jobs under section 8 of the selective service act.

Another case, involving Harry Tritschler and four other veterans, all employes of the Universal Potteries of Cambridge, O., in which they make similar demands, will be heard by Judge Underwood in district court Monday.

Marriage Vows Are Taken In Marion Church

MISS MARY ELLEN MILLER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Miller of Windfall, became the bride last Sunday of Edward F. Neidhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. David B. Neidhart of south of Marion. The double ring ceremony was read at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon in the Prospect Street Methodist church by the pastor, Rev. Henry Maag, and the custom of open church was observed. The couple repeated their vows before the altar decorated with palms, bouquets of white gladioli and lighted candles in two seven branch candelabra.

A program of nuptial music was presented preceding the ceremony by Mrs. Robert Rice, organist, and William Busch, soloist. Mrs. Rice's selections included "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," Herbert, "Always," Berlin, "Thine Alone," Herbert, "Oh Promise Me," DeKoven, "Because," D'Hardelot, "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," Stults, and the traditional wedding marches. During the ceremony she played "Liebestraum," Liszt. Mr. Busch sang "At Dawning," Cadman, "Indian Love Call," Friml, and "I Love You Truly," Bond.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin fashioned with a fitted bodice and a full skirt which extended into a train. Her fingertip veil of illusion was caught with a tiara of orange blossoms, and her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom. She carried a white Bible topped with a purple orchid.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Miss Susanna Miller, and bridesmaids were Miss Edna Mae Neidhart, twin-sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Norma Jean Neidhart, also a sister of the bridegroom. Miss Juanita Jane Miller was junior bridesmaid and Miss Barbara Ruth Miller flower girl. Both are sisters of the bride. They were attired in gowns of contrasting colors and wore matching tiaras in their hair. Each carried an arm bouquet of daisies.

Serving as best man was Charles Mautz. Cecil Conklin, cousin of the bride, and Warren Selter, cousin of the bridegroom, served as ushers and lighted the candles.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Miller chose a navy blue crepe dress with which she combined brown accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations. Mrs. Neidhart was attired in a light blue dress of cable net with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 100 guests was held at the Country Cottage near Marion. The bride's table held a three tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Mrs. W. D. Busch and Mrs. Melvin Cratty presided, assisted by Miss Louise Bender and Miss Irene Conklin. When the couple left on a wedding trip to Washington, D. C., Mrs. Neidhart was wearing a poudre blue suit with white accessories and her bridal orchid.

The bride's gift to her attendants were rhinestone bracelets, and the bridegroom gave his best man and ushers billfolds.

Boos Long, Loud As Congress, President Fight About Labor

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 21—What I want to know is, who's booing who?

There can be no doubt that President Truman used some 5,000 well-chosen words to boo congress for its labor bill. Some of these words were so fancy that George Maurer, the ordinarily imperturbable house reading clerk, stumbled over a number of them.

Nor is there much argument about the booing by the union cavalcades, which converged upon Washington with signs chalked on the doors of their sedans: "Kill the Slave Labor Bill." That's known as booing in print.

The union leaders parked their motorcars outside and jam-packed the galleries of the house. Four hundred and fourteen congressmen—more than I ever saw before in their sanctum at one time—found seats.

Two Gavels Needed

And there was Speaker Joe Martin, a prudent man, armed for trouble. One gavel wasn't enough. He had two big wallopers. I guess maybe he was a little excited over the importance of the occasion, because he immediately pulled a blooper.

Congress, as you know, isn't supposed to know what's in a presidential message until it is actually read. A number of lawmakers wanted to sound off; Martin squelched 'em.

"I think the speeches might well be deferred until action on the veto," he said.

Haw-haw-haw, went the lawmakers; the speaker flushed over letting the veto out of the basket, while the unionists sat there, puzzled over the merriment. Clerk Maurer began to read the President's message.

Reading Marathon

He plowed through it for 45 minutes, with never a stop for breath, or a drink of water.

This reading took so long that a couple of Democrats, one from Texas and the other from Indiana, broke out a sack of peanuts. Made a fellow hungry, looking at 'em. Didn't do the reading clerk any good either, because it is difficult to face an audience while it eats.

When Maurer'd read the final word, a few of the Democrats clapped their hands. One tried a tentative cheer. And then, from the floor rose a boo. The handclapped their hands. One tried a The boos grew louder and Speaker Martin whacked his gavels until they sounded like a cannonade. That brought silence.

Bawls Out Visitors

Then the speaker did a peculair thing. He bawled out the visitors in the galleries. I swear they hadn't uttered a peep, but Martin said if they made any more noise he'd eject 'em.

A Democrat from Michigan, name of John Lesinski, said he didn't want to vote on over-riding the veto until he'd had a chance to do a little arguing. The Republicans were crying "vote, vote, vote." When nobody agreed with Lesinski, he suggested—despite the packed house—that no quorum was present.

The speaker sighed. He went through the motions of counting the customers. He said a quorum was on hand. Came then the history-making vote about which you have read. The house overrode the President almost four to one; more of his own Democrats voted against him than for him. This, I understand, is known as booing by ballot.

Now it's up to the senate and I can hardly wait; I want to know who's boo wins the argument.

YOUTH GROUP PLANS SUMMER SERVICES

First Program To Be Held Sunday Night.

First of the summer services of the interdenominational youth group here, the Marion Christian Youth movement, will be held tomorrow night at Trinity Baptist church, Miss Anne Baldwin, president, announced.

A covered dish dinner at 6:30 will open the meeting in the church basement dining room. Singing will be led by Miss Mary Queen. A worship service will be in the auditorium, and there will be a recreational hour. The M. C. Y. M. meetings have been set up for every other Sunday night throughout the summer, as was the plan last year.

Announcement was made by the Youth Fellowships of Epworth Methodist church that members of the Epworth group will meet at "Our House" at 6 p. m. to go to Trinity church together. Another church which made special announcement of cooperation of its youth group with the interdenominational organization's program was Salem Evangelical and Reformed.

Earlier this year, the organization of the interdenominational youth group was revamped to meet the problems of an expanding program. Marion Christian Youth movement was adopted as the official name of the body, a committee was appointed to bring the constitution up to date, and standing committees were established. Eleven churches were listed as active in the movement and plans were made to extend membership by special invitation to others, each church to have two youth representatives, and each denomination an adult counsel representative on the governing board. Officers include Miss Baldwin, William Hollaway, Betty Morse, Rudi Rech, Miss Lydia Ebel, counselor, Rev. Emil C. Klutey, ministerial advisor, and committees, Arlue Detrick, constitution; Harold Van Gordon, finance; William Hollaway, publicity, and Virginia Howard and Marjorie Middleton, social action.

Suddenly it's young again

PROBABLY that faithful Buick of yours still can show a clean pair of heels to other cars on the road – probably still rides and runs like a charm. It makes you realize how wise you were to have picked a Buick in the first place.
Even though time always takes a toll, Buicks do carry their years well. They can keep their eagerness to go, their lighthearted gait and gentle comfort – particularly when they are rewarded with the considerate care that Buick dealers know how to provide. It's care that brings out your car's youthful spirit – care that lets you feel that suddenly it's young again.
Buick car care is something far different from what's regularly called service. It's something that only a Buick man can give. Because he is trained in all the needs and preferences of Buicks. The tools he uses are the right Buick tools. And any replacement part your car may need is a Buick-engineered part.
So it's easy to see why your car is so ready to give you its best when it receives regular Buick car care—care by men who know Buicks through and through and love them heart and soul.
THIS WORM TURNS A BIG CAR
A Buick steers with a finger touch. Part of the secret is a stream of 66 steel balls that circle the worm on the steering column. With these balls there is so little friction that steering is feather-light — so little wear that the gear stays tight and firm without frequent take-ups.
Your Buick dealer lubricates this gear with just the lubricant Buick intended. Anything heavier would make steering stiff in winter — anything lighter fails to give full protection against wear.
It's another instance of how Buick care keeps Buicks best. And the same holds true in whatever your car needs — lube job, tune-up, major or minor repair.

Papa Won't Spank

WE AGREE with President Truman that it's a bad thing for the government to nib into every negotiation between employers and employes. But after reading this and his other objections to the plan prepared by congress for putting the nibbing-in on an equitable basis, we have to wonder whether he knows why the plan was prepared at this particular time.

Union reform is a sizzling issue in this country because an overwhelming majority of congressmen have concluded that government lacks authority to do the nibbing-in it must do if sovereign power is not to pass from the people to a minority of strong-willed labor leaders. All of us are sorry it has turned out this way, but it has. Mr. Truman, bless his politician's heart, isn't pussy-footing around a theory but an imminent danger—as imminent as the next coal strike.

The problem before congress, all politics aside, was to establish machinery for restraint of a kind of economic power which, unrestrained, threatened the government. The problem had been crystallized by the people's experiences with strikes that threatened their security.

The same kind of a problem was dealt with by congress some 50 years ago when government was threatened by the economic power of business trusts. A law to restrain business monopoly was passed then. A law to restrain union monopoly is going to be passed now, not because of desire to destroy unions, but because it's the instinct of the American people to fear concentrations of unrestrained power. Mr. Truman's veto of this decision is backed by some 6,000 words of rationalization, but nowhere does he mention the most important fact—that abuses of their power produced this law to restrain union bosses. Congress, acting for the people, denies the right of any minority to paralyze the United States whenever the whim strikes.

The whim has struck John Lewis and apparently is about to strike him again. It has struck Philip Murray, Walter Reuther, A. F. Whitney, Harry Bridges and a couple of hundred other labor leaders. The American people are sick of being booted around by a few men who have eaten so much meat they dare to play Caesar.

Mr. Truman knows all this. He himself has lost patience with the Caesars. But because of politics, he has decided to take his chances with them anyway. They, in turn, must take their chances with him from now on. The alliance may be smart politics, but it's dubious government.

Mr. Truman has held back nothing. His change of heart since he himself precipitated union reform with a plan for drafting striking railroaders into the army last year, to make them work against their will, has been complete. He ain't mad no more at nobody, with a labor vote he might pick up in 1948.

Believing his veto would be overridden, as it promptly was in the house, he even caused to be prepared (at public expense) a blue print for the lawyers who will be paid to find loopholes in the new law. Every loophole that can be found by government experts has been charted and measured. If it is possible for a one-sided administration to sabotage the law, the job can be started without delay, thanks to the President's veto message. Fortunately, these presidentially-authorized legalisms aren't binding on the courts and may not even be binding on the executive agencies.

To indulge in a little political speculation, Mr. Truman's veto may not prove to be binding on anything or anyone, except Mr. Truman and the White House. He may be stuck with it, in it and by it. The very labor bosses he's trying hardest to please may fail to feel bound by it.

Mr. Truman has made one tiny concession to those who do not agree with him, Dan Tobin, William Green, Jack Kroll, et al., that everything about the unions is perfect and serene. He says he still wants union reform, provided it doesn't reform anything. Congress, he says, still could pass a law he'd approve, but since he now is allied with a group of men who like things just the way they are, that would have to be a law reserving to labor leaders all further rights that they may demand now that they have papa's complete assurance they'll not be spanked.

How Fast Can You Go?

WITH a speed of 623.8 miles an hour, a jet-propelled army plane brings the world record back to the United States. Even if we have not held the speed record for, lo, these 24 years, our military aviation has been the world leader, despite occasional record-breaking bursts of speed elsewhere.

Now our fighter planes are achieving such speeds that they are little more than scientific curiosities. Approaching the speed of bullets, they are in effect missiles themselves.

This is not to say American aviation is nearing perfection. Far from it. Less emphasis on military speed planes and more on commercial transport safety is what's needed. If the effort expended on building up tremendous speeds were devoted to safety, instead, aviation would get ahead faster.

It is estimated that 20,000,000 people have visited the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, D. C.

No More'n a Rabbit!

By FRANK TRIPP

RADIO must have taken the cap and gown boys seriously. The last posse of professors to pursue the bandits put radio and movies in the dog house with newspapers and proclaimed a three-way "press."

They said that a shortcoming of the triumvirate is the lack of criticism which they dish out to each other. So a New York radio panel picked the local newspapers apart.

It seems that the experts made a wonderful discovery. It developed that all of the papers in New York don't report and interpret things exactly the same.

That's bad. There should be a law for it and somebody should write another book.

Fellows who make newspapers were startled to hear that such shameful conditions exist. The American Society of Newspaper Editors should convene pronto and expel members who print different kinds of stories of the same event.

There's no excuse for it. Every citizen knows that any time you get a dozen people together to discuss a topic or report on it there's always perfect unanimity of opinion and never any deviation or discrepancy in the most minute details reported by each.

Horsefeathers!

It is proved by every issue put to press that the only folks able to produce a perfect newspaper must be those who have never tried it. Men who get out newspapers seek, but never have attained perfection — nor claimed it.

Some day a newspaper will call the bluff of the national figures and local digits who know all the answers.

A smart publisher will knock off, dig out for a week and send his editors and news staff fishing. He'll turn the dump over to the long-haired and hatchet-faced crew that has been stoning newspapers and let 'em shoot the works.

Boy, they'll flock in like fleas to a dog show—and go out with their tails draggin'.

Likely, first thing they'll hold a policy conference and name everybody some kind of an editor. There'll be a lot of 'em, each with his own pet peeve, an ingrown grouch or a major reform to ballyhoo.

There'll be as many policies for the rag as there are screwballs wrecking it. There'll be only one thing on which they'll agree; that the paper has been biased, lousy and successful and the editor should be tarred. They'll all lament that the sheet is dominated by the publisher. They'll abolish that functionary.

About Wednesday they'll have Monday's paper ready for the press—and it'll be a honey.

Thursday the subscribers will begin to call in; and get 20 different answers from 20 ponderous potentates.

Friday they'll discover that the thing needs a publisher after all, and name one.

Saturday the front windows will be spattered with ripe tomatoes, the circulation manager will be in the bug house, the press crew down at Mulligan's, crocked.

All of the experts who didn't get named publisher will resign and hand in signed articles on why the experiment failed. They'll all say the publisher scuttled the ship.

Sunday's swan song will charge the flop to big business, public indifference and sun spots.

Monday the old editor will come back from fishin' and he and his boys will show 'em the real reason:

That none of 'em knows any more about a newspaper than a rabbit.

Bridgework Across The Border

More than a million sets of false teeth were exported from the U. S. to South America last year.

We're not only feeding Europe, but also helping South America to eat.

This is a splendid program, affording even the critics of our Pan-American policy something to chew on.

We're probably making a lot of new friends with our dental diplomacy. At least we've got teeth in our good neighbor policy.

Incidentally, I trust the shipments are on a lend-lease basis. That way, if we get to having trouble with any of our South American neighbors, we can demilitarize them by calling in their bridgework.

There's nothing like a few days on a liquid diet to lessen one's belligerency.

Change in U. S. Policy Hinted

By WALTER LIPPMANN

IF ITS fundamental conception is respected and followed, Secretary Marshall's Harvard speech will mark the beginning of a more natural and normal relationship between the United States and the European world. Mr. Marshall insisted that the plan of European rehabilitation should be made in Europe, not in America, and that our role is to support, assist and encourage but not to initiate and lead, or to compel the European nations to adopt an American plan.

For we have realized, as the gravity of the impending crisis has become better understood, that if Europe is to become less dependent on us economically, it must become less dependent politically. Thus, as long as Mr. Bevin and Mr. Bidault look first to Washington on European questions, they will not come together as Europeans. The fantastic fact that there is not yet a common Franco-British - Belgian - Dutch policy about Germany and the Ruhr has almost certainly been due mainly to an excessive deference to and preoccupation with Washington.

Change In Relationship

The Harvard speech is, I believe, intended to change this false relationship among the European nations and with this country. It says in effect that instead of each of them seeking agreement with us separately, they should agree among themselves. For we cannot govern Europe and do not want to have to try. The European nations must govern themselves in order that we may be able to help them effectively over the transition from war to peace. To become self-supporting they must begin by being self-reliant.

This does not mean that we are withdrawing from Europe. We shall continue to maintain the balance of power along the Stetin-Trieste line and in the Middle East, and we are offering to support a program of European recovery. This is in no sense isolationism. But we shall have to draw back from too intimate entanglement, from excessive intervention, in the interior life of the European continent.

The agreement just made with the Greek government is a concrete example of this too intimate entanglement and excessive intervention. Even if we admit that in the case of Greece there was no alternative, what we have gotten into in Greece is a clear and striking example of what we cannot afford to let ourselves in for in other countries. If what we have to do in the way of governing Greece is the "Truman Doctrine" in practice, then it is out of the question that we should apply it elsewhere in Europe.

Imagine trying to do anything resembling the Greek operation in Italy, or the Netherlands, not to speak of France or Great Britain—the Greek entanglement illustrates perfectly the necessity for the basic change in our European policy which the Marshall speech signalized.

The new world can, as Canning said more than a century ago, redress the balance of the old world. But it cannot govern, administer, direct or, except in limited amounts and temporarily, subsidize the old world.

If Europe is threatened by Soviet imperialism, the United States cannot save Europe by confronting Russia alone. Europe must save itself. The United States can assist Europe to save itself only if the main effort of salvation is made in Europe.

Wisdom of Speech

The deep wisdom of the Harvard speech is that it rests upon a true estimate of our relationship with Europe, avoiding both the falacy of isolation and its no-less fallacious alternatives, which is universal unilateral intervention or what Theodore Roosevelt used to call the policy of "Meddlesome Mattie."

The needs of Europe are urgent. Nevertheless, now that we have made the right start, we shall do well to make haste slowly, to let the seeds planted in the Harvard speech germinate and bear their fruits in Europe.

For we can help effectively only as fast in Europe as a whole or in any part of it, for example the Ruhr, as the nations most concerned are able and willing to act together.

Nor can we move any faster than that at home. If Congress and the people are to support a European program on the scale which the situation requires, it will have to be very clear to them that this is in fact a program of recovery and of peace, and not another way of doling out relief that cures nothing. Only a program made in Europe by agreement among Europeans will carry with it a reasonable hope that it is the real thing.

THE SHADOW OF STRENGTH

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Monday, June 21, 1937.

Hundreds of thousands of Catholic school children quit their parochial schools all over predominantly Catholic Bavaria in obedience to a Nazi government order which dissolved the schools and made them into secular institutions.

Miss Mary Rita Murphy entertained with a dinner and bridge at Hotel Harding for Miss Theresa Tobin, who was to leave July 1 for Cincinnati to enter nurses' training at Good Samaritan hospital.

Mrs. French Crow, state president, presided for installation of officers of the city and county unions of King's Daughters, at Epworth M. E. church. Mrs. Walter E. Miley was elected and installed as leader of the City union for the tenth year and Mrs. Walter A. Dorsey took office as head of the County Union for the seventh year.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. James E. Rissler of R 1, Marion.

Five Upper Sandusky boys narrowly escaped drowning when they were marooned on Ronk's bridge. They had waded through water to reach the bridge and while watching the swirling flood failed to notice the Sandusky river was rising. Don Reynolds 14, jumped to a floating log and reached safety a half mile downstream; Edward Rhodeheaver, 15, climbed a nearby telephone pole; Dal Hudson, 14, sought refuge in a tree and Francis Betzel, 15, and Arthur Wheeler, 13, remained on the bridge and called for help. They were rescued by H. C. Steinbaugh and Paul Stubbs, who navigated a row boat and motor through the rapid waters.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, June 21, 1927.

John A. Abel of Marion, secretary of the Eagles' lodge here, was elected state president of the order in its annual convention at Youngstown.

Announcement was made that Major General Dennis E. Nolan, commander of the Fifth corps area, would come to Marion to visit the tomb of President Harding some time during July.

At a meeting of the Marion Retail Merchants bureau plans were made for a Marion County merchants picnic. F. E. Stuckey was in charge of the meeting and arrangements were made to have C. Z. Zachman, president of the bureau, name a committee.

Work on the new First Reformed church, expected to cost $75,000, was reported to be a month ahead of schedule.

Jack Houghton, son of Dr. and Mrs. Z. B. Houghton of 581 Girard avenue was employed by the Marion County Red Cross chapter to have charge of the first aid and life saving school of instruction set to open July 1. Houghton was attending a special training school at Culver, Ind., in preparation for his work.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Miller of South Prospect street and Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Miller of east of Marion returned from Ann Arbor, Mich., where they attended the graduation exercises of the University of Michigan. Miss Geneva Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Miller was a member of the class.

Miss Marian Conley, teacher at the North State Street school, left for Columbus to enter summer school at Ohio State university.

The Limit of Taxation

By RAYMOND MOLEY

HERBERT HOOVER'S letter to Senator Styles Bridges makes a point completely ignored by President Truman in his veto of the tax bill. It is the fact that no free nation can continue to tax its income beyond a certain rate and not reduce its standard of living.

President Truman's own secretary of the treasury, Fred M. Vinson, made a statement that 25 per cent of the national income is the limit a nation can stand in taxes and exports. Hoover states that 35 per cent of our national income now goes for federal, state and local government expenditures.

While this figure may be somewhat high, it is a fact that at least 30 per cent of an estimated $180,000,000,000 national income goes for taxes. This is well above the danger point. Yet President Truman blithely brushed this aside in his veto message by pointing to the high rate of employment.

It is probable that the authority for both Vinson's estimate and Hoover's warning was Dr. Julius Hirsch, whose economic writings have, over the past two or three years, established the thesis that there is a limit to the proportion of taxes which can go into an unproductive government at home and into uncompensated exports.

Basis of Estimate

Dr. Hirsch two weeks ago spelled out this point in a significant article in "Barron's." He arrives at the 25 per cent approximation in two ways: First, through a study of European economic systems before the war; second, through our own experience over the past 25 years.

In the years 1922-1929, public spending was 13 per cent of our national income. By 1939, public spending had reached 25 per cent, and from then on our standard of living definitely did not improve. The best proof of all is the experience of the last year or two, when still higher expenditures have been accompanied by an inflation which has turned the standard of living downward.

As Hoover says, we cannot safely export more than our surplus of production over our needs for consumption. And "the surplus applies to certain kinds of commodities, for we do not produce a surplus in all kinds of goods. If we ship more than our surplus, we are taking it from the standard of living of the American people."

How It Works

The means by which this law is inexorably applied in a free economy is prices. When the supply of a given article is reduced through exports to a point below the demand, an inflationary price rise sets in which denies the particular article to those who cannot pay for it.

It will be noted that Hoover uses the word "free" to describe a nation in which this principle works. Hirsch points out that this rule works in "non-Sovietized, industrial" nations. Possibly under a rigid, totalitarian economy inflation can be prevented and production increased by law. But that is at the cost of personal freedom, and it is exceedingly doubtful whether living standards under such a system can ever attain those that we have known. All we know is that they never have.

Inescapable Facts

Since we choose a free economy, we must observe the rules under which it works. Our gifts and loans abroad must be faced for what they are. They are taken from our production. We must either produce more, or quit giving or lending, or educate ourselves to live on less. We can measurably lessen the difference between exports and imports by taking what other nations have to give in raw materials or manufactured goods. But the amount that can be secured is not great enough, nor is it likely to be great enough to meet our deficits.

Or as Hoover suggests, we can induce the cooperation of all nations to increase production and reduce those expenditures which are now necessary because nations do not trust one another.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

The Burglar and the Right Club

A Brooklyn man routed a burglar with a golf club the other day, intimidating him to such an extent that he was held until the police could arrive. From all over the country the cry has been heard, "What club did he use?" and we have been looking into the matter. Our research leads us to conclude that the best club is all a matter of opinion. Some prefer the wooden; others like the brassie, especially if the burglar isn't teed up well. Others like an iron, saying that while a wood gives distance, accuracy is more important.

There is no percentage in socking an intruder and then being unable to find him for the second shot.

* * *

We once encountered a robber in a low spot between the kitchen and dining room. We decided to use a wood despite the bad lie. The expected happend. We topped the bum. He rolled under a table and became an unpayable lie.

* * *

Another time we met up with a porch climber just inside the guest room. It was a small room, lacking space for a full swing. A mashie would have been the right club. But we took a two iron. What happened? We failed to take up plenty of carpet and dubbed the shot, dribbling it over between a floor lamp and a desk.

* * *

We insisted that this was ground under repair (as we had put in some new floor boards recently), and that we were allowed to lift the burglar and play him again without penalty.

* * *

The burglar insisted that the repairs had been completed and flashed a rule book. He demanded to be played where he lay. We gave in. We wanted to drive for the telephone in the next room, but it constituted a dogleg and called for a deliberate slice around the corner.

* * *

We were naturally tense, and on the second shot missed the crook completely. We pressed on the third and ran him into a bathroom just under the sink. We held this constituted casual water and that we could lift him.

* * *

He demurred. We then whipped out a short-handled club and he cried "Illegal!" and threatened to report us to the rules committee. Altogether it had become an unpleasant round, and we conceded the match.

* * *

Elmer Twitchell, an expert in such cases, says that the first rule is: "Keep your eye on the thief! A lot of people lose in encounters with robbers because they look up or grip too hard," he says.

* * *

"I used the right club and had perfect form in my last battle with a thief, but the cops messed it up," he went on. "I held him until a patrolman and a prowl-car man arrived, but they were both golf duffers. They lacked rhythm. I had played the crumb a little into the rough, and the cops went in after him. They came out without him."

"What happened?" we asked.

"They forgot to pivot!" snapped Elmer.

Sinclair Lewis was at Yale this week for the fortieth reunion of his class of 1907. New Haven papers call attention to the fact he did his first writing as a reporter on the Journal Courier there. If Sinclair gets nostaglic and starts loosing around the newspaper field back home he will become pretty dazed. The Journal Courier, which was away upstairs in a dilapidated State street building in his day, has since gone to the original site of Mory's at Temple and Center streets, and from there to Crown street where it functions in the old Register building. The Register is away out Orange street. And it is now a one-man newspaper, John Day Jackson owning the only two newspapers there. Gone are the Union, The Leader, the Morning News and the Palladium of Sinclair Lewis's boyhood.

Henry Wallace says Russia is not as bad as it is painted. Perhaps not, but we will bet dollars to doughnuts that it would even resist any attempt to agree on the right paint.

President Truman got an honorary degree at Princeton and great are the sighs of relief at Old Nassau when he accepted it without any criticism of the timing.

A Blow for Comfort

By TRUMAN TWILL

It is itme again to talk about porch furniture, especially the practice of putting it on the porch.

Designers of porch furniture have knocked themselves out to make their product the most comfortable furniture ever known. They threw away the book and started from scratch, which was an inspired move.

They designed a whole new family of chairs tailored to adjust themselves magically to the divergent rear elevations of fat ladies, angular men, the short, tall, wide and narrow.

They recognized what never has been recognized by makers of fancy inside furniture—that the only way a human being can be comfortable for long periods of time is to plant his center of gravity below the level of his knees.

They gave in willingly to a cardinal principle of design that inside furniture makers callously ignore—that a human being forced to remain longer than half an hour in one sitting position needs some kind of an air-cooling system to keep his clothing and skin from wrinkling and bunching.

They gave mankind that boon to solid comfort, the glider, which has been the means of more relaxation for the human race than any other single blessing, except the bed. They even gave mankind the hammock, now in a period of neglect.

They made all these things of materials that would be durable, yet attractive to the eye and light enough to permit the chairs, gliders and the tables that went with them to be moved from place to place. They even made some of it collapsible, in farsighted recognition of the limitations of space for its storage.

But what we want to know—what we ask about each year—is why porch furniture has to be stored in the winter months. If human beings can be comfortable in the summer, why can't they be comfortable the year 'round?

Why can't the comfortable porch furniture be kept in the living room when cold weather returns and the uncomfortable, overstuffed, overheated and badly designed living room furniture be stored on the porch, where it quickly would disintegrate?

Then next spring it could be thrown away and good riddance. One of the few really successful things ever pulled off in this country was porch furniture that was comfortable. It should be given the nod over all the stuff it automatically made obsolete. It's the people's choice. Arise, lovers of comfort! What have you to lose but the wrinkles in your clothes and the cramps in your legs?

DRIVER TO RACE HERE IN MOVIE ACCIDENT

Ed Dunwoody's Sulky Brought Here for Repairs.

Ed Dunwoody, Newark harness race driver, was shaken up in an unanticipated accident at Lancaster where filming of the movie "The Green Grass of Wyoming" has been in progress for several weeks, according to Bob Slatzer of Marion, who has been working with the movie colony.

Dunwoody, who will drive in Marion during the Little Grand circuit meet July 1-19, was acting as a stunt man for one of the trick scenes of the movie. The scene involved crashing through a fake balsa wood inside fence. After doing this Dunwoody's horse bolted through the infield, tossing the sulky high into the air, throwing the driver. Neither Dunwoody nor the horse was injured.

Slatzer accompanied a Twentieth Century-Fox truck to Marion where the sulky was taken for repairs by the Houghton Sulky Co. yesterday. It was the second time in a week that it was necessary to send sulkies to Marion for repairs.

The movie colony left Lancaster over the weekend to go to Utah for further filming.

Slatzer, who has been acting as an assistant director as well as an assistant still photographer and stand-in for Charles Coburn, one of the picture's stars, will not accompany them. He plans to return to Marion.

Patriotic Program Given by Auxiliary

A patriotic program was presented when Betsy Ross Auxiliary to Marion Camp No. 32, United Spanish War Veterans, met Friday afternoon in the American Legion Dugout. Mrs. Susie Wedertz was in charge and devotions were conducted by Mrs. Hattie Richards. The historian, Mrs. Mabel Poulin, read an article on "The Making of the American Flag."

One member was reinstated, and Mrs. Mercedes Burns, patriotic instructor, talked on the rules and regulations for voting at the department convention. Several members are planning to attend the Spanish War Veterans convention June 22-23 in Columbus.

A social hour followed and a contest prize went to Mrs. Josephine Cusic. Hostesses were Mrs. Dolly Anthony, Mrs. Callie Howison, Mrs. Nellie Glaze and Mrs. Ellen Poland. A covered dish dinner will be held for the auxiliary and camp July 18.

Miss Cornely was chosen president of her class. She will arrive home tonight for a three weeks' vacation before resuming her training.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornely and Mrs. Margaret Cornely of Woodrow avenue, grandmother of Miss Cornely, attended the exercises.

Reconciliation

A Sermonette

By REV. M. V. FALOR
Pastor of Oakland Evangelical United Brethren Church

Text: II Cor. 5:20, ". . . be ye reconciled . . ."

FIVE different times some form of the word "reconciliation" appears in the concluding four verses of II Corinthians, chapter five. Basically it means "to reestablish friendly relations between two parties who were estranged." The religion of Christ is designed to bring friendship and unity and harmony out of the strained relations, and enmity, and discord which so evidently exist in men's relationships to God, and with one another. Christianity stands alone, and supreme in its great universal power to work this change of reconciliation. Let us note three realms of its expression.

I. Reconciliation between man and God.

As the drop of ink that falls into a tumbler of water darkens all the contents and robs it of its crystal clear purity; so sin shades all our character and dims our fellowship with God. In reality it puts us at enmity with God. As sinners, our central need is disclosed in the Scriptural words, "be ye reconciled to God." Through the gift of His crucified Son, God has taken the lead in providing the wonderful grace whereby all the enmity which exists between us and Him may be removed. He now calls for a responsive advance on your part and mine, which will make the grace of reconciliation ours in actual experience. Altho God has designed and provided and offered this blessing, yet it will never become your's only by your consent and active cooperation.

There was a mother whose daughter had long led a reckless life of great sin and shame. Finally the daughter's eyes were opened. She returned home to the house by the hillside, finding her way in the darkness. She entered and found her old mother crooning over the ashes of the fire. The penitent was clasped in her mother's arms. "I came home in the dead of night and found the door unlocked," she said. The mother replied, "It's never been locked since you went away, for I didn't know when you might come back." So God keeps the door of mercy ajar and waits to welcome you into His most intimate friendship. "Be ye reconciled to God."

II. Reconciliation of man with himself.

The Apostle Paul described the common lot of man when out of embarrassing personal experience he wrote, "For the good that I would I do not: but the evil which I would not, that I do." That describes civil war within a personality. Do you have that dual personality, with no unity and harmony within? God's grace of reconciliation is abundantly adequate to harmonize and unify your being until there will not be a good self which wants to do the right, repeatedly being defeated by an evil self forcing you to do the wrong. Can you live with yourself without boredom? Are you in good company when alone? Or are you ashamed of your real self? If you are the victim of clashes and fears and worries and domineering evils, then don't be satisfied merely to blame and condemn yourself because of your recognized weaknesses and sins, but get the kinks taken out of you by God's reconciling grace.

III. Reconciliation between man and man.

In Ephesians 2:15 Paul says of Christ, concerning His accomplishments for Jews and Gentiles, that He "abolished in his flesh the enmity—for to make in himself of 'twain one new man, so making peace." Christ died not only to make reconciliation between Jews and Gentiles of His day, but to sweep away the disunity and enmity of all peoples who really believe in Him in every age, and to make them true friends. Our responsibility as Christians is not only to seek tirelessly the salvation of the lost; but also to heal breaches, and meld down enmities, through the love and spirit and power of Christ, wherever they exist—in homes, in cliques and manifold society groups, in churches, in the labor world, between nations and races. Dr. E. Stanley Jones suggests that two who are not at peace, as for example a husband and wife, cannot be reconciled or brought back on friendly terms by one overpowering and conquering the other; but rather by each dropping the evil that is in them, and each taking up the good that is in them, and thus meeting in a new place above and beyond where they have been. Another suggests that each of us should "be a friend at large."

Your biggest business is to believe and experience and practice and proclaim the message of God's reconciling love. "Be ye reconciled!"

A Will You Can Exercise In Life
A sound thinking man not only makes a will but shows a will to do the necessary things in life.
A moral obligation and unquestioned need is a burial place for his family and himself. The man of foresight has the will to provide this in advance of need.
He knows that if allowed to go unattended, an unnecessary burden is placed upon survivors in an hour of sorrow and despair.
Family burial lots are available at moderate cost and on convenient terms.

Old-Fashioned Air Conditioning Idea Offered for Summer Home Comfort

YOUR HOME TODAY and TOMORROW

by W. Wadsworth Wood

Many of the good, old-fashioned formulas for making your home comfortable in the summer, have been forgotten by the present generation. Some of these simple yet effective ideas are worth bringing to light again, for nine times out of ten, they will bring about a decided increase in the comfort of the average house.

The old practice of keeping windows and doors open during the night when the air is comparatively cool and closing the house up tight, with drawn blinds, during the day, is still as good as ever. As a matter of fact, with the insulation you usually find in the modern house, the arrangement is better than ever. It is true that the interior may be gloomy, but if you must have sunlight you need only step out of doors to have it.

The attic fan originated in the south where warm nights are the order even after a burning day. To install an attic fan in the ceiling of the upper floor is not a very expensive job. Usually there is a stair to the attic or at least a hatch. A light box is constructed to cover the stair-head or the hatch-way, and an electric fan placed in it which operates so as to draw the air out of the house below and into the attic where it is forced out of the attic windows or vents. Many homeowners have constructed their own attic fans by using thin plywood for the box, and an ordinary electric fan.

Awnings which have side-flaps create more heat in a house than though they were not there. This type of awning forms a pocket around the windows, and the air under them, unable of escape, becomes hotter by the hour. Awnings should never have sidepieces, but should be open so that the air beneath can pass through.

Another old-time practice was that of wetting down all the shrubbery around the foundations of the house in the evenings. Every green leaf is a miniature refrigerating plant, and if you open the first floor windows at the bottom only, the cooling effect on the house is very noticeable.

A great many years ago, long before air-conditioning was even thought of, we had occasion to call on a wealthy old farmer out in Kansas. He was a very practical and highly intelligent old man. When we entered his house, we were astounded at the cool, pleasant atmosphere. There in the main hall, stood a large dishpan with a 50-pound cake of ice standing in it, and an electric fan on the floor alongside, blowing a cooling breeze through the house. The block of ice was covered with a sheet, which naturally was sopping wet and as cold as the ice; but it made the ice last all day.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

No Basement Under Room

Q. I have a large room with no basement under it. It is only four or five inches above the ground. This room is attached to a cottage, under which there is a basement. The large room rests on one or two sets of blocks. During rainy or cold weather, the room becomes very damp and the wallpaper, wet. We have one hot-air register in this room, but this does not help much. Can something be done to improve the condition?

A. One method to make the floor comfortable is to put down a layer of insulating board, then a wood flooring over it. If you now have a sub-flooring and a finished floor, it would be better to take up the flooring, place blanket or batt insulation between the joists, and then replace the flooring. A coal or oil-burning room heater, connected to a vent to the outdoors would make the room more comfortable. Even a portable electric heater would help. Storm sash would improve matters still more.

Paint for Cellar Floor

Q. Please tell me of a good paint to use on my unpainted cellar floor—something that is dampproof and will stand up well.

A. Use a rubber-base, cement-floor paint.

Question: There is a white foamy substance on my garden plants, flowers, hedge and rose bushes and also on the grass.

I have used Black Leaf 40 and dry lime and sulfur spray, but it seems to have no effect. I would be very grateful if you could tell me what to use to destroy it. Thank you.—Mrs. M.H.G., Marion, O.

Answer: The white foamy masses that you are finding on the stems of your flowers and grass are the egg masses of the spittle bug. Ordinarily these do no harm to amount to anything, and can be ignored. If, however, you feel you want to control them you may do so by dusting or spraying with DDT.

5 BOYS GET SUSPENDED SENTENCES OF 30 DAYS

Appear in Court for Looting Refreshment Stand.

Five boys from 9 to 15 years of age were given suspended sentences of 30 days in the county detention home when they appeared before Judge Paul D. Smith, acting juvenile judge, Friday. They were charged with breaking and entering a refreshment stand in Lincoln park Tuesday night, and also with shoplifting in downtown stores. Application has been made to send two of the boys, aged 13 and 15, to the bureau of juvenile research in Columbus. They will be sent there as soon as acceptance is received by the court. All five were released in custody of their parents and three placed on probation.

Judge Smith, in giving the suspended sentences, placed responsibility for further action squarely with parents of the boys, recommending that if the children become involved again that charges of contributing to the

HERBERT SIGNS SIX MEASURES

Bill To Ban Public Employes' Strikes Heads List of Legislation.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 21—Ohio's public employes anti-strike legislation—the Ferguson bill—and five other measures enacted by the 97th general assembly bore Gov. Thomas J. Herbert's signature today.

To become effective 89 days hence, the bills were signed by the chief executive yesterday. They are the first of 100 last-minute measures pushed through the legislature before last weekend's closing business sessions.

Along with the Ferguson bill, Herbert approved a bill to increase salaries of judges and all other county officials except coroners, whose pay was increased two years ago.

He also signed the three per cent admissions tax repealer, permitting municipalities to levy and collect such taxes if they desire; the state board of agriculture reorganization bill and another concerning the allocation of local government funds.

Most Controversial Bill

All considered administration measures, the most controversial was the Ferguson bill prohibiting public employes of all types—state, county, township, municipal, district and school teachers—from going on strike, at the penalty of at least one year's loss of their jobs. While they can be reinstated at the end of a year, they could not receive a salary increase for another 12 months, and during the following two years, a probation period, they could be summarily discharged.

The pay raises covered in the bill for judges and county officials won't become effective until such persons are re-elected to office. The bill provides $12,000-a-year for common pleas and probate judges up to $12,000, also to be paid by the paid, and approximate 30 per cent increases for other county officials.

Divide Money Differently

Under the local government allocation bill, state subsidies would be distributed on the basis of 75 per cent municipal tax duplicate and 25 per cent on county populations. After reaching the counties, the funds would be distributed to participating subdivisions on the basis of need, with no county getting less than $25,000. Additionally, local governments will receive $16,750,000 from 1947 sales tax funds and $12,000,000 annually thereafter.

The state agriculture board measure increases board membership from ten to 12 persons and broadens both the board's and the promise efforts of their leaders to fix a Monday deadline.

LABOR

So, with no agreement yet in sight, senators who had been sleeping on cloakroom benches went back to nap while Morse spoke to an almost empty chamber.

Shortly before turning down the Monday vote suggestion, the bill's opponents had rejected a Republican proposal to vote at 4 p. m. (3 p. m. E.S.T.) or 5 p. m. today.

Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky) then suggested an agreement to have the showdown at 4 p. m. next Tuesday but this was blocked by an objection from the Republican side. And the talk marathon droned on into its 19th hour.

In Continuous Session

Confident they had the two-thirds majority to enact the bill into law, Republican leaders had kept the weary members on the job since noon (11 a. m. E.S.T.) yesterday

But a stubborn little bipartisan group led by Senator Taylor (D-Idaho) insisted on waiting until next week for the nation's reaction to a broadcast defense of the veto by President Truman last night.

They denied it was a filibuster, but Taylor talked for 8 hours and 25 minutes and Senator Kilgore (D-WVa) took over where the Idahoan left off. Senators Morse (R-Ore) and Langer (R-ND) stood by to pinch hit for Kilgore

Mr. Truman's broadcast turned into a last minute radio duel with Senator Taft (R-Ohio), whose name the bill bears.

Mr. Truman told the voters the measure is "a shocking piece of legislation" which would be "bad for labor, bad for management and bad for the country."

Taft Thinks Differently

Taft retorted in a broadcast half an hour later: "A complete misrepresentation."

He said the President's remarks show "that he knows practically nothing about the bill itself."

And then he passed this word to reporters:

"We expect to override the veto."

The house had already done so, 331 to 83, far more than the required two-thirds majority

This left up to the senate the decision whether Mr. Truman would suffer his first smashing defeat at the hands of the Republican controlled congress or score a victory of major proportions.

His backers found no outward sign that his veto message and radio speech to the nation had overcome the slim margin by which the senate Republicans counted on winning. The bill passed on May 13 by a 69 to 24 tally, well over the two-thirds mark.

"Hard To Sustain"

Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky), supporting the President, said the veto "will be right hard to sustain."

Another Democratic strategist, said the President's camp lacked about four votes to reach the one-third-plus-one it needed to uphold the veto

The White House, giving every evidence that the President was trying valiantly to make his rejection of the bill stick, was reported to have communicated with Senator Tobey (R-NH) in New Hampshire. Tobey, who was absent on the May 13 vote, was regarded by Republican backers of the bill as an uncertain quantity.

Senator Sparkman (D-Ala), who headed the Democratic congressional campaign last year, announced that he was switching to support the President. Senator Lucas (R-Ill) was reported to be in the same frame of mind.

Will Keep Senate Tied

Senators Morse (R-Ore), Pepper (D-Fla) and Taylor showed every intention of keeping the senate tied up as long as they could hold out. Their contention was that the country ought to have time to transmit to the senators its reaction to the veto message and the radio speech.

Republican leaders met this challenge by demanding that the senate remain in session until it reached a vote. Weary senators yawned and slept at their desks as Taylor, a former tent show performer, talked on and on after a start at 6:50 p. m. (5:50 p. m. E.S.T.) yesterday.

The remote control debate between the President and Taft last night produced bristling charges.

Repeating much of what he has said in his earlier veto message, Mr. Truman denounced the Taft-Hartley measure as "deliberately designed to weaken labor unions."

He added that it would "undermine our national policy of collective bargaining."

"For the sake of the future of this nation," he declared, "I hope that this bill will not become law."

From hurriedly jotted notes, Taft blasted right back at the President.

Taft said it was "astonishing to find the President objecting to the section which prevent Communists from being officers of labor unions."

He said it "is not so" that an employer can discharge a man on the pretext of a slight infraction of rules, "even though his real motive is to discriminate against the employe for union activities."

"The President says the law will expose unions to suits for acts of violence, wildcat strikes and other actions, none of which were authorized or ratified by them," Taft continued, adding:

"This is not so."

Declaring that the campaign carried on by labor unions against the bill had been "a complete tissue of falsification," the Ohio senator said:

"It is discouraging to find the President of the United States yielding to their pressure, adopting their arguments and blocking the efforts of the great majority of the people's representatives, including a large majority of the Democrats in the house of representatives, to secure a reasonable reform."

OUSTED CIRCUS HEAD RETURNS TO HELM

By The Associated Press

WILMINGTON, Del., June 21—James A. Haley, who left the "biggest show on earth" last month after a Delaware supreme court reinstated Robert Ringling as President, was back at the helm of the Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey Combined Shows Inc., today.

Haley, who was elected president by the big top's directors yesterday at the annual meeting which ended a year-long controversy over the circus' officers, said he would rejoin the show Monday at York, Pa

The directors also elected John Ringling North as executive vice president and chairman of the executive committee. North is a nephew of John Ringling, one of the five founders of the circus.

North told reporters after his election "Jim Haley and I have worked together in the past and we will continue to do so."

Other officers elected included Robert Ringling, first vice president; his mother, Mrs. Charles Ringling, second vice president; Mrs Aubrey Haley, wife of James A. Haley, secretary, and James R Griffin, treasurer.

The election of Haley to succeed Ringling climaxed the legal battle which was carried into the courts by Mrs. Charles Ringling after the 1946 annual meeting which elected Haley president.

Hundreds of Families Flee Mississippi Crest

By The Associated Press

HANNIBAL, Mo., June 21—The crest of a second big June flood had reached the Hannibal-Quincy, Ill., area today causing hundreds more families to flee their homes while levee workers carried on an all-night fight.

The Mississippi river stood at 11 feet over the flood stage at Hannibal while the Sny levee situation on the Illinois side remained critical. Failure of this levee would result in the inundation of 120,000 acres, much of which already was covered by backwater. All residents in the area have been evacuated.

The Red Cross made arrangements to shelter 1,000 persons in the Central Junior high school here as water flooded the lower half of the city and a coast guard cutter operated from the flooded railroad station.

Wisconsin's Straw Vote for President Brings Varied Views

By The Associated Press

MADISON, Wis., June 21 — About 2,000 delegates to the Wisconsin Republican state convention today cast straw votes for presidential candidates in a poll regarded by some observers as a key to the 1948 race and by others as meaningless

House Majority Leader Halleck, (R-Ind) in a keynote address prepared for delivery, declared the "country has had enough of "High Tax Harry" and "his abuse of the presidential veto power to thrwart the demands of the people."

Delegates registering for the convention were handed ballots listing the names of 11 prominent Republicans and were asked to check their first three choices. Newspapermen supervised the balloting and an accounting firm will complete the tabulation tomorrow.

Some political writers termed the poll "significant," declaring that Wisconsin is a key G. O. P. state The late Wendell Willkie's defeat in the 1944 Wisconsin presidential primary, when he failed to win a single delegate and withdrew from the race, has been cited as an example of "significance" of Wisconsin politics.

Other observers said the poll "doesn't mean a thing." It was arranged by Thomas E. Coleman, chairman of the state voluntary committee, who said it was not designed to favor any candidate.

Needs Machinery

He needs machinery that he could get with dollars accruing from joining in the plan. If he rejects it, he gets no share of the dollars and virtually no hope of promoting a dollar loan of his own. And Europe's Communist parties, bidding for popular support on their ability to restore torn economies, lose face, for the aid will not bear the red mark.

If he accepts, he also must accept the political fact that the plan will tend to hold back the spread of Communism.

The decision, which must come by Monday night, is one for a single Europe, virtually on Anglo-French terms, or two Europes, with Stalin running his part of it by himself.

Tass, quoted on a Moscow radio broadcast received here last night, said the Soviet Union felt that information on the Marshall plan was too scant but that she was "of course interested" in the idea.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M.D.

Sleeping Posture

Poets have sung the praises of sleep, but medical men are probably better aware of its value. Certainly nobody knows better than they that in sickness or in health, peaceful sleep is a wonderful tonic.

Unfortunately, not everybody is able to get really deep, refreshing sleep. That is why so many studies of sleep have been made, particularly with reference to the position of the sleeper, which, it has been found, is likely to be changed many times during the course of a night.

Many doctors believe that a number of painful conditions can be traced to faulty sleeping posture. It is believed that as a result of sleeping in an unfavorable position there may be some strain on the ligaments which hold the bones of the spine in position. This in turn may result in pain that resembles the pain produced by gallbladder disease, kidney colic and other disorders.

To avoid strain on these ligaments during sleep, Dr. James McDonnell of London thinks that the vertebrae, or small bones in the spine, should be lined up by assuming the proper sleeping position about as they are when the person is standing erect.

Dr. McDonnell says that the correct sleeping position is on the side, with the hips fixed in one position, the head and neck well supported on a pillow. One leg is not kept on top of the other, the upper leg being placed forward on the mattress. Knees and hips may be bent to suit the individual's comfort. The uppermost shoulder is brought forward with the elbow placed on the mattress. The head and neck are supported by a pillow which extends to the shoulder but not under it. The pillow should not be too soft.

In some sleeping positions, for example if the hips are not fixed, as the muscles relax during sleep, the upper shoulder falls back, which twists the spine.

If a person sleeps on his back, unless the thighs are supported in a bent position, there is a certain degree of strain on the lower part of the spine.

If a person sleeps on his abdomen, the head is turned to one side, and twisting of the neck occurs.

Although improper sleeping positions do not always produce symptoms, it is possible that slight injury of the ligaments will occur which in turn may produce irritation of the nerves which come from the spinal cord. This may lead to tenderness and pain in various areas, as well as more general symptoms. Thus it would seem to be important that persons give some thought to the position assumed during sleep.

The Alaps hospice founded by St. Bernard, and famous for its life-saving dogs, has been in existence since about 1081.

Marion Books Top Picture

"Leave Her to Heaven" To Show Sunday, Monday with "Brewster's Millions."

The highly dramatic film adapted from a best-seller, "Leave Her to Heaven" and "Brewster's Millions" will be shown Sunday and Monday at the Marion theater. Starred in the former are Gene Tierney, Cornel Wilde and Jeanne Crain, and heading the cast in the latter is Dennis O'Keefe.

"Leave Her to Heaven" tells the story of a young wife who has the desire to monopolize her husband's affection, and who will stop at nothing, even murder, to do this. The latter, an hilarious comedy, tells a story of how O'Keefe was willed a million dollars and couldn't find ways to spend it.

Billed as a double feature for Tuesday and Wednesday are "Conflict" starring Humphrey Bogart, Alexis Smith and Sydney Greenstreet, and "Christmas in Connecticut" with Barbara Stanwyck and Dennis Morgan.

The former picture tells of a "perfect crime" whose perfection leads to the murderer's eventual undoing. The latter film is a comedy of how a mixed up "threesome" turned into a Merry Christmas for all concerned.

James Cagney, Annabella, Richard Conte and Frank Latimore are starring in "13 Rue Madelaine," which with "Bells of San Angelo," starring Roy Rogers and Trigger, will be shown Thursday through Saturday.

In the former film is told an astounding story of counter-espionage and adventure that leads to the most sinister address in history. The latter picture is another musical western in color with hard riding and gun slingin' which Roy Rogers can handle.

BOYS' GROUPS ARE BALL TEAM'S GUESTS

Children's Home Youngsters Also To Be Included.

Some 25 or 30 Boy Scouts and Cub scouts have been daily admitted free to the Marion baseball games recently and Judge Dexter Hazen, president of the Ohio State league club, announced plans for making arrangements to take the children from the Marion County Children's Home to see several of the games before the season closes in August.

The Scouts were admitted following arrangements made between Judge Hazen and Owen Meddles, executive Scout secretary and the first of the units attended on June 17.

Transportation means for the children from the home is still undecided as groups from there have not yet been able to attend any of the games but Judge Hazen expressed the hope that the transportation problem would be solved soon so the children from the home would be able to see their first league game.

Arrangements for their attendance will be patterned after that of the Scouts, Judge Hazen said, namely that the person in charge of each unit will drop a card to Judge Hazen giving the number of boys who wish to attend, the date, number of leaders and name of the person in charge of the group for the evening. An alternate date should be given in case too many wish to take their troops on the same night. Cards should be sent early.

The only requisite for the groups who attend is that a scoutmaster or patrol leader be present to supervise the youngsters for the evening.

CUBS COME FROM BEHIND TO EDGE MUNCIE PACKERS 6-5

Locals Play Single Tonight At Dayton, Doubleheader Sunday

By DON C. BURTON

Although outhit 13 to 8 the Marion Cubs again came from behind with a three-run rally in the eighth, through the help of wildness on the part of Muncie pitchers, Eddie Post and Virgil Dickinson and an error by second baseman Locke, to defeat the Packers at Lincoln park last night 6 to 5 before a crowd of 1,272 howling fans.

John Edington got back on the winning track by stopping the Packers with only one hit in two innings after taking over after the faltering Gasper Pivorunas had surrendered to a pinch hitter in the seventh.

Coming to bat in the last of the eighth with the score 5-3 in favor of the "Gentlemen from Indiana," singles by John Smith and Gene Bobzean set the stage for the winning rally. After Bob Shuford struck out Manager Nelson Burbrink, who always seems to be in the middle of Cub rallies hit a pitch off Post's glove that filled the bases.

Walks Run In

Walter Rasmussen walked to force in Smitty and Manager Mike Blazo removed Post and brought in Virgil Dickinson who struck out Mel Nelson. Then Dickinson lost control and walked Forbes to force the tieing run over the plate. With two away and the bases still full of Bruins, John Edington hit a ground ball to second sacker Locke who tumbled and allowed the winning run to scamper home.

In the Muncie ninth Bob Shuford tried for a shoe string catch of a ball hit by Mello down the right field line and it went for a triple when the ball got through and bounced into the corner. Edington bore down with two away and made pinch hitter Spaziano fly to Nelson in left to end the exciting night.

Score in Seventh

Although touched for at least one in every inning Pivorunas kept the Packers at bay with only one run until the seventh when four runs scored. The session began when Bob Shuford dropped two flies in right for errors from the bats of Florence and Lamont, then Gatjanis hit one over the left field wall to score both ahead of him. Foster followed with a triple and scored on a single by Mello.

Muncie got the first run of the game in the third inning. A hit by Post, a sacrifice by Locke, walks to Lamont and Gatjanis filled the bases with two out.

Foster then hit a skipper down to Smith at third that took a bad hop just as Smith bent over to get it and the ball got through for a single and the run by Post.

Tie It Up in 4th

The Cubs tied in up in the fourth. Bobzean got the first of his three singles and was forced by Shuford at second, but Gene upset the pivot man to prevent the double play. With Burbrink at bat, Shuford surprised all by stealing second base. The big southerner moved to third on an infield out and scored on a single by Walter Rasmussen.

A run in the sixth gave the Cubs the lead 2-1. Roy Hollingshead started with a single and was sent to second on a sacrifice by Smith. Bobzean made the strategy look good with a single that scored the fast little second baseman.

The win gave John Edington his sixth victory against a like number of defeats. The arm trouble that bothered John for three weeks is gone and he looks in the groove again.

Post Gets Lost

Ed Post, Muncie southpaw last year with Middletown, was tagged for the loss when he left the tieing and winning runs on base when relieved in the big Marion eighth.

The Cubs go to Dayton for a single game tonight and a doubleheader Sunday. Sabens is slated for mound duty in tonight's game. After the Dayton series the Cubs jump back to Springfield for games Monday and Tuesday. Before the game Tuesday night the Giants will raise the pennant they won last year. A. B. (Happy) Chandler, commissioner of baseball will be guest at the game.

Dodgers, Newark And Lima On Top In League Games

By The Associated Press

Zanesville, Marion, Newark and Lima won last night's Ohio State league games that saw two changes in the circuit's standings.

The league-leading Dodgers won a three-hour, 10 minute tilt from Springfield's Giants, 11-7, battering five opposing pitchers in a belated attack that needed five runs in the eighth to clinch the verdict. Sandy Lambert, Zanesville's ace, appearing in a relief role, bagged his ninth slab decision against two defeats.

For the second straight game the Marion Cubs came through in the eighth inning to topple Muncie's Packers by one-run, this time, 6-5. The Muncie defeat, coupled with Lima's third straight victory, 5-3 over Richmond's Roses, dropped the Packers into the league basement and put the Terriers in seventh place.

The Dayton-Newark game went to the Browns, 3-2, and enabled Newark to regain third place while the Indians sank to fourth, one game behind. Berg Benzel, Dayton flinger, spoiled a four-hit performance by issuing seven costly bases on balls.

PRO GRIDDERS TO MEET

A get-together meeting of all players interested in playing with the Marion semi-pro football team this fall will be held at Hotel Harding at 7:30 p. m. tonight.

L. E. GREER of Newark, pictured above, is the driver and owner of several horses which will race at the Little Grand Circuit meeting here July 1-19. Two well-known horses he will drive are Charming Chief in the 28 pace stake and Private George in the 17 pace stake.

What's Bruin?

The Cubs signed a new pitcher yesterday from the Chicago Cubs baseball school at Mansfield.

He is John D. Graney an 18-year-old from Perry, Iowa. He is six feet, one inch tall and tips the scales at 185 pounds. He came to the school at Mansfield as a first baseman, but Cub scout Tony Lucadello changed the gangling youth into a pitcher. Mel Wiebel, outfielder, was released to make room for the new hurler.

Lucadello is highly sold on the prospects of Graney to make the grade in organized ball. He took Manager Brubrink and club president W. Dexter Hazen to Mansfield Thursday to see the group of 40 boys from all over the country workout. The two Marion "Father Bears" lost no time in getting the young left hander to ink a contract.

Lucadello is enthusiastic on the value to the Cub organization of the baseball schools like the one at Mansfield. Boys are collected from all over the nation by the Cub scouting staff and sent to the school. While there they secure odd jobs around the town to work during morning hours. Then in the afternoon they practice and play baseball after taking lessons from Lucadello and Jim Lymper, Mansfield High coach and a good played in his own right. When not playing against semi-pro teams in the section they play inter-squad contests.

John Smith, Marion third baseman, celebrated his twenty-first birthday Friday. John started his pro career in Marion in June of 1944 the first year of the Ohio State league.

He went to the Army after the season ended and served two years, chiefly in the Pacific. While in the Philippines he played on a team managed by Al Milnar, former Cleveland pitcher. On the same team was Roy Partee now a Boston Red Sox catcher.

This year Smitty started the season with Hutchinson Kansas and was doing well there when the Cubs decided to come to the aid of Manager Nelson Burbrink. Smitty thinks the Ohio State league is much faster than in 1944. He seems a cinch to make the All-Star team to be picked by the sports writers of the league in the middle of July.

Masterson Runs Scoreless Innings Whitewash To 34

By The Associated Press

"Whitewasher" Walter Masterson, who hasn't been scored upon in the last 34 innings, threatens to win as many games this season as he did all told in his previous five and a fraction years in the big time.

The tall, bespectacled righthander, won only 20 in nearly six seasons with Washington. Last night he notched his sixth triumph against three defeats, shutting out the St. Louis Browns 3-0.

Masterson's 34 consecutive scoreless innings tops the previous high of 31 strung together by Frank Papish of the White Sox, Cleveland's Bob Feller had 29 earlier this year.

The world champion St. Louis Cardinals continued their rush for the top of the National league standings by winning their eighth straight 7-3 against the New York Giants. Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, the Redbirds' number one hurler, gained his ninth victory as he became the first St. Louis hurler to defeat the Giants this season. The Cards had lost six straight to the New Yorkers.

The onrushing Redbirds now are in fifth place, but only three and a half games away from the front running Boston Braves who lost to the Chicago Cubs 6-5 in an afternoon game.

The New York Yankees went back into first place in the American league by defeating the clumping Detroit Tigers 5-3 while the Boston Red Sox were losing to the Cleveland Indians 3-2.

Ernie Bonham, former 20-game winner for the New York Yankees, hurled a 6-0 shutout against the Philadelphia Phils in his first starting assignment for the Pirates in a night game at Pittsburgh.

Jim Hegan's Bat Putting Cleveland Indians in Race

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, June 21—It may or may not have been Rogers Hornsby's tutoring, but the fact remains that Jim Hegan's bat has been a potent factor in the Cleveland Indians' five victories in seven games of the current eastern trip.

Jim gave the brightest demonstration of his new-found power at the plate last night by driving in all the Indians' runs as the Redskins snapped the eight-game winning streak of the Boston Red Sox with a 3-2 triumph.

A home run in the second inning with Joe Gordon on base, a single in the ninth that scored Les Fleming from third were Hegan's contributions to the Cleveland victory after admiring neighbors from nearby Lynn, Mass., presented him a Buick sedan, a refrigerator, a radio and a check for $1,000.

Sharing the limelight was Hegan's battery mate, Al Gettel, who became a member of the Indians last winter in the trade that sent Ray Mack and Sherman Lollar to the Yankees.

Gettel held the Red Sox to five hits as he notched his first victory for Cleveland. One of them was a home run by Murrel Jones with Bobby Doerr on base in the fifth.

PLAYS THAT COUNT

By FRANK ECK
AP Sports Editor

Connie Mack, 84-year-old manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, says the greatest play he ever saw was a shoe-string catch made by Rube Oldring of the A's in the 1913 World Series with the New York Giants.

"Moose McCormick pinch hit for the Giants and hit one to left field," says Mack. "Rube Oldring made a shoestring catch and I believe it's the greatest play I've ever seen.

MACK
Athletics

"Chief Bender was pitching for the Athletics and the catch saved the game. I think the score was 6 to 4 that day."

Mack was right on all counts except the score. The A's won 6 to 5 at Philadelphia. The next day in the Polo Grounds Eddie Plank beat the great Christy Mathewson, 3-1, and the Athletics won the series, four game to one.

Ruth Would Be Benched in Longhorn League

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 21 — Fearless Fraley's facts and figures:

Giant fans, proud of their team's hitting, can give awe and Pirate rooters, sad about their pitchers (string of 19 games in which the starter failed to finish), can get some consolation from the Longhorn league of Texas.

Recent averages from the class D circuit in the Lone Star state show that 17 players are batting over .400. That includes five regulars, paced by Bud Williams of Ballinger with a .462 mark. Taking it from there, 68 players are batting over .300.

In the pitching department, 26 hurlers, or "throwers," have earned run averages of over 10 runs per game. Ten of them have allowed more than 20 runs per game but the real champ is a chap named Allinder.

Earned Runs 149.04

His E/R/A is 149.04. Honest! 149.04. He gave up five runs in one third of an inning. A lad named Winkles gave up five runs in a full inning for a 45.00 average.... If they hooked up in a pitching duel at that rate, Winkles would win, 149 to 45.... But that would make it a one-game season.

They revive the Poughkeepsie regatta today but all the news doesn't always come out of the race. They still talk, for instance, about the time the Columbia crew, berthed on the far side of the Hudson, joshed Jim Burchard of the World-Telegram about never showing up at their isolated boathouse.

Swim To Boathouse

So the next morning, Burchard strolled down to the east shore, calmly stripped off his clothes and swam the mile and a half across for a visit.

They acclaimed Sam Snead for sinking the 16-foot putt to tie Lew Woorsham for the open and then ridiculted him for missing inside three feet to lose the playoff. The truth is that it has ever been thus with The Slammer, and it isn't a question of the "apple" coming up. In the clutch he's dynamite from a distance.

For instance, during an early round of the open he was walking up to a green with Vic Ghezzi.

"I wish I could putt those short ones like you do, "Snead moaned.

So Sam canned a 36-footer and Vic three-putted from six feet.... The moral, I suppose, is that they all miss 'em from time to time....

Club Honors Owner

The town of Selma, Ala., "Biggest Little City in Class B Baseball," will honor owner Maurice Bloch on Monday night. Some of the citizenry wanted to get Bing Crosby to sing before the large crowd but the owner of the pirate farm replied:

"Why Crosby? Get 2,000 people in the park and I'll sing."

Tickets are reported going slowly. There's a rival hog-calling contest at a nearby town the same night.

Texans never have been backward about admitting they have the biggest and best of everything. And J. Frank Jungman of Houston isn't slow about telling the Giants that they are handling Clint Hartung, the Hondo Hurricane, in the wrong manner.

"Tell the Giant coaches to let Clint stand up at home plate like he wants to," writes Jungman. "Clint then will knock a homer every game. Clint is from Texas and he can hit homers his way...."

That's what the man said.

Programs on the Air

President Truman's address from the Thomas Jefferson Memorial in Monticello, Va., and a half-hour program, "Landmarks in American History," presented by the network and the American Legion, will highlight the Columbia Broadcasting System's radio schedule for Friday, July 4. The President's address will be heard at 12:30 p. m. as he speaks to the nation in the 171st celebration of Independence Day.

Nation's "Little Guy" in Dither As President, Congress Split

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, June 21—This week made the little guy, any little guy trying to make up his mind on what's what, feel all scrambled in his head.

That tax bill. That labor bill. Now you see them, now you don't.

Congress worked for months on a bill to cut his taxes, and wham, this week the President vetoed it.

James Marlow

Congress could not re-pass it over the veto and — there it was. Dead. No tax cut for him in 1947.

He told himself he wasn't griping so much about no tax cut. But what got his head all twisted on the inside was this:

Congress said this is a good time to cut taxes. The President said it isn't. Who's right: the President or congress?

The little guy, being a little guy, wouldn't know. If those big men, in congress and the White House, couldn't agree, how could a little guy tell?

Second Bell in Teeth

He shook his head. He shook it twice because, wham, right behind the tax bill the President vetoed the labor bill.

Congress has worked for months on the labor bill. There'd been more arguments about it, inside and outside congress, than on anything in years.

The Republicans pushed it through. The bill was intended to put curbs on labor unions.

When the President vetoed it, the house re-passed it right over the veto. Then it was up to senate to do the same, if it was to become law.

Right away brand new arguments broke out in the senate.

Taft Says Bill O. K.

All this time the Republicans, led by Senator Taft of Ohio, had been saying the bill was good, fair, badly needed, and would make labor peace.

In short, the Republicans said it was just what the doctor ordered. But that's not what President Truman said.

He took the bill apart, limb from limb. He said it was awful, bad, unfair, and would cause labor trouble for years to come.

All this made the little guy feel gloomier than ever, and dumber. Hadn't congress argued for months? Shouldn't it know what it was doing?

Yes, but the President had the advice of a lot of labor experts. Shouldn't he and they know what they were doing?

Well, then, who really knew what he was doing? Who's right: President or congress? The little guy felt his head begin to wobble. He asked himself:

If the President and congress can't agree on whether a labor bill is good or bad, how can a little guy like me tell?

Firemen Called on Tar And Sulphur Blazes

City firemen were called to extinguish two blazes yesterday.

A tar kettle, which was being used by the Stewart Construction Co., overflowed and caught fire in front of 980 Uncapher avenue at about noon yesterday. Small loss resulted before it was extinguished. The kettle was the property of the city of Marion.

A carload of bulk sulphur which was set off the main track onto a New York Central siding at the end of Carhart street, became ignited at about 3:50 p. m., the fire causing slight loss. Firemen arrived before it had a chance to get a good start. Cause of the fire was not determined.

OHIO NEWSMAN'S SON KILLED IN GERMANY

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, June 21—Blowing up a residential air raid shelter by U. S. army demolition squads resulted in the death of an American boy yesterday.

Lynn Heinzerling Jr., 10, son of a correspondent here for the Associated Press, fell into the blasted hole and was asphyxiated by the fumes.

The handsome, dark-eyed lad was playing around the exploded bunker, located in the yard of a house occupied by a bureau of the army newspaper, Stars and Stripes. The site adjoined the Heinzerling residence.

He fell in the hole several hours after the demolition charge was set off to destroy the shelter as a war potential. When rescue workers discovered the accident, they had difficulty reaching the boy through a narrow aperture. Efforts to resuscitate him failed and he died within an hour at the Army's 279th Station hospital.

Mrs. Heinzerling and her two sons came to Berlin from Ohio in February to join their husband and father. Their other child is Larry, aged 17 months. Heinzerling is a native of Birmingham, O., and began his newspaper career on the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Mrs. Heinzerling is from Elyria, O.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

I WRINKLED my nose at my husband as he put his impatient question, and he had the grace to flush a bit shamefacedly. "All right, all right," he said. "I'll grovel at your feet. I know what you must have been up against. But have you written that letter to Harriet?"

I laughed outright at his typical reaction to even a suggestion of criticism, then answered his query swiftly, as a precaution against fireworks.

"Yes, my liege lord," I said, with a little moue at him. "The letter is written, signed and addressed. I am waiting only for you to read and approve it before putting it in the mail box beside the elevator."

"You don't need to wait," he said. "With your memory, you could have recited the whole thing verbatim."

"To confess the truth," I told him, "I just finished the letter only a minute or two before Phil knocked on the door. It took me a long time to decide just how to word it."

"I can imagine that," he said, with a grin that told me he was fully restored to good humor. "I've never gotten over my awe at my formidable sister, Harriet, and I imagine she impresses you the same way. But I'm glad you waited to post it. As soon as I've read the screed, I'll dash over to the postoffice and put it in the box with my own hands. Then there won't be any delay about it."

No Breakfast Yet

"But—," I began, and choped off protest that he had not yet breakfasted as I saw his eyebrows contract into a frown.

"But what?" he snapped.

"Nothing," I evaded. "I'll get the letter for you to read."

"Don't stall!" he commanded. "You were worrying for fear I'd drop from malnutrition between here and the postoffice. Give me that letter, throw yourself back into your armchair, and for the love of all the forty-eight states and their governors, relax!"

I laughed relievedly, feeling my taut nerves relax, as they always do at his nonsense; then went to my desk, took out the letter, handed it to him, and obeyed his command to sit down.

He read it rapidly, then went back and read it over again. When he lifted his eyes for the second time, there was heady approval in them.

A Good Job

"You did a good job," he said. "I think it will appeal to Harriet."

"Thank you," I said. "Will you please read it aloud to me? I'd like to hear how it sounds."

He looked at me quizzically.

"You're a queer little duckling," he said, as he picked up the letter.

Then he began to read, and I sat on the edge of my chair in tense attention.

"'Dear Harriet,'" he began, "'I am sorry to trouble you, but a question has arisen, the settlement of which is vital to Mary's reason, if not to her life, and she will take no one's word but yours.

"'She has come home from the sanitarium, unexpectedly, in fairly good shape physically, but so mentally disturbed that we fear she may attempt to take her own life. Her memory has failed—she cannot remember her lines—and, although I am convinced it is but a temporary condition, she believes she never will be able to act a role again.

"'But worse than that, is her belief that she has inherited insanity from her mother, and that this eventually will result in complete imbecility for her—"a spoon-fed baby" is the horrible eventuality she has conjured up in her imagination.

Made No Impression

"'I tried to tell her that your sister Elizabeth's condition was due to something which happened at Roderick's birth, but the statement made no impression. She told me she would not believe Dicky on a stack of Bibles, and her grandmother she dismissed with the statement that any mother would lie for her daughter. Of course we would not think of saying anything to your mother about this.

"'She said that you would not tell her an untruth, and that she would believe any direct statement you made. But she warned me that you would evade the question.

"'If there is anything you can say to relieve her mind, I trust you will write me as soon as you possibly can. We are watching her night and day.

"'Yours lovingly, and with regards to Edwin,

"'Margaret.'"
